See below for details.

Resolving Common Challenges When Using the Electronic Appraisal Delivery Portal

If you are a user of the Federal Housing Administration's (FHA) Electronic Appraisal Delivery (EAD) portal, consider the information below to help you save time by resolving common challenges that can lead to processing delays.

Avoid EAD System Lockouts: Keep Your FHA Connection User ID Up-to-Date

EAD portal users must have and maintain a valid user ID for the FHA Connection (FHAC) system to access the EAD portal. If you have not signed on to FHAC for 90 days, your user ID will be terminated and must be reinstated by your organization's FHAC Application Coordinator. If your FHAC user ID expires, you will not be able to access the EAD portal until your user ID is reinstated.

Note that your EAD portal user ID and password are different than your FHAC user ID and password.

Clearing the Top Five Hard Stops

The table below contains the top five EAD portal hard stop error messages that users receive, along with potential causes and resolutions to clear the errors. Over 65 percent of first-time submission errors come from these hard stop error messages.
